Showdown Ruling Seen In Arkansas

By UNITED PRESS

A federal court showdown ruling expected today in the explosive Little Rock integration controversy may demonstrate just how far the U.S. government will go to force a state to obey the desegregation mandate of the Supreme Court.

Federal District Judge Ronald N. Davies is scheduled to hand down a momentous decision in the most significant legal crisis over the race issue since the Supreme Court's desegregation rulings of 1954.

Davies will rule on the Little Rock board of education's request submitted two days ago, to "suspend integration indefinitely" at Little Rock Central High School.

Good Evening!

Another hurricane on the loose.

This one, Carrie, busting around far down in the South Atlantic with no apparent danger to the mainland.

No hurricanes this way, please. But, gee, what a solid week of gentle rain would do for the countryside.

Maybe a few showers today and tomorrow, like the weatherman promises?

Phillies lose again—to the lowly Buccaneers last night. That more than wraps up the season.

And both Braves and Yanks losing ground in league races and, you know, maybe there'll be a race after all.

It won't be long now—last call for roasting ears and home-grown tomatoes.

Guess we'll have to go back to lobster, clams and blue points and it's a come-down that's humiliating.

Some doctors believe in shock treatment, incidentally. They send 'em out the first of every month.

A small town is a place where people brag about their traffic problems.

Parents seldom kiss their children good night any more—the kids get home too late.

If you're driving during the weekend, take it easy, please?

Go to church tomorrow.

The board made its "crisis request" after Gov. Orval E. Faubus called out the National Guard Tuesday to prevent Negroes from enrolling in the school.

The decision will be handed down partially on the basis of an FBI report to Davies on "the facts" of who was responsible for "interference" with his two federal court orders that the school be integrated.

Atty. Gen. Herbert Brownell Jr. Friday ordered the FBI to confer with Faubus' representatives on "certain evidence" the governor told President Eisenhower he would be glad to furnish and upon which he based his decision to call out the guard.

Faubus Stands Firm

Faubus, who has remained personally uncommunicative since Wednesday, stood firm in his refusal to permit school integration. He continued to maintain the armed guard on the school and on his executive mansion.

The governor promised Eisenhower in a telegram that he would uphold the Constitutions of Arkansas and the nation.

Brownell planned today to ask the President for a go-ahead on legal maneuvers to speed integration at Central High. He said he (Continued on Page 3, Col. 8)

Firecracker Set At Myers'

A firecracker was exploded at Daffodil and Deepgreen Lanes, Dogwood Hollow, near the home of Levittown's first Negro family last night.

Terrace Homes

Go On Sale Today

Fifty-five homes in Bristol Terrace 1, a war-time Federal housing development, went on sale to the general public today.

The project, built in 1942 at Beaver Dam Road and Route 13, Bristol Township, contains 135 units. Eighty units have been sold on a preferential basis to families who already lived there.

Sample homes in the community, many of them two-family dwellings, will be open for inspection today and tomorrow, 1 p.m. to 5 p.m. A representative of the Public Housing Administration will be on hand to accept applications and discuss sale arrangements.

Vaccine Lack Postpones Flu Clinic

The Asiatic flu vaccine clinic scheduled for today at Lower Bucks County Medical Center, Nottingham, has been postponed until next weekend it was announced by Dr. Harry Rudman.

Dr. Rudman said the clinic, sponsored by the Nottingham VFW Post, was postponed because of the lack of vaccine. He hopes adequate supplies would be available for next weekend.

The clinic had a "firm commitment" for a drug distributor that the serum would be available this week, he said.

Big Demand

But a lack of production coupled with increased demands from federal, state, and municipal governments made delivery impossible. He has been assured vaccine will be available for next weekend. He said the clinic would know by Tuesday how much vaccine it could get.

Dr. Rudman said only one company, National Drugs, is shipping serum. Last week this firm sent out a million inoculations. Under a nationwide form-

Flu Vaccine Drain Eases

WASHINGTON (UP) — A spokesman for the Public Health Service said today the drain on the supply of Salk polio vaccine was "easing up."

But he said the supply still was short of the amount necessary for mass community vaccination programs.

The service reported 3,609,702 shots of Salk vaccine were released this week and soon will be in the hands of druggists, physicians and health officers.

ula, Pennsylvania gets 6.5 per cent of the serum produced. This figured out to be about 7,000 "shots" for the state.

The doctor said the clinic could use that many inoculations in one weekend.

Other Producers

Dr. Rudman said drug companies are producing the vaccine and will start shipping it shortly.

The charge for an inoculation at the clinic will be $1.50. He explained that only one "shot" will be needed for immunization, which should last at least a year.

Dr. Rudman said everyone should be inoculated but there is no reason for alarm at the delay in vaccine shipments. It will be about eight to ten weeks before the danger of an epidemic becomes serious.

He said once the vaccine starts to arrive the medical center, Crafton Drive and Street Road, Nottingham Village, Bensalem Township, will continue with the shots as long as there is a need.

Magazines Are Declared 'Confidential' Defendants

HOLLYWOOD (UP)—Prosecutor William L. Ritz said today he will prove that Confidential and Whisper magazines are guilty "faceless" defendants in the scandal-filled criminal libel trial when the case resumes next Tuesday.

Attorney Arthur J. Crowley has maintained throughout the five-week case that he is defending only Fred and Marjorie Meade and their movie-land listening post, Hollywood Research Inc.

In beginning his final argument yesterday Ritz pointed dramatically to New York attorney Albert De Stefano, and told the jury:

"Confidential and Whisper are trying to pull a gag, claiming they are not on trial here, and that they are not represented by counsel.

Beck Flays Union Ways

WASHINGTON (UP)—Teamster President Dave Beck, in an apparent reply to AFL-CIO clean-up demands, indirectly accused the AFL-CIO today of trying to impose its will on rank-and-file union members.

The outgoing head of the Teamster organization in v o k e d the words of the late Samuel Gompers, pioneer labor leader, in discussing the centralized power of the AFL-CIO.

The AFL-CIO, has accused the Teamsters of being dominated by corrupt influences and named Beck and other top officials in calling for reform of the 1,400,000-member trucking union.

Beck told Teamster members to "ask yourself if the father of the American Federation of Labor (Gompers) didn't foresee the day when attempts would be made to superimpose on the rank-and-file a rule from the top of a centralized organization."

AFL-CIO President George Meany has said that Gompers' policy of union self-government did not mean the AFL-CIO would tolerate corrupt leadership of member unions.

Beck, writing in the current issue of the Teamsters monthly magazine, quoted Gompers as saying: (Continued on Page 3, Col. 6)

Final Round Tonight

Miss Pa. Shines At Atlantic City

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (UP)—A courageous blonde girl who overcame a false start in a difficult operatic solo and a baton twirling college graduate studying for her doctor of philosophy degree took top talent honors last night in the final preliminary competition rounds of the Miss America pageant.

Blonde Miss Oregon, 19-year-old Judith Faye Hansen of Astoria, Ore., plugged to despair at her own mistake when she started on the wrong note of her lyric soprano rendition of "Si, Mi Chiamo Mimi" from La Boheme.

She had the heart and the voice to tie Miss Pennsylvania for first place in the talent division.

Jack Palance Gets 'Tough'

HOLLYWOOD (UP)—Gaunt actor Jack Palance staged a real-life "tough guy" scene yesterday when he angrily hurled papers at photographers at a court hearing on his wife's suit for separate maintenance.

The actor engaged in the altercation with photographers outside the courtroom in nearby Santa Monica and tried forcibly to prevent Los Angeles Herald Express photographer George O'Day from taking his picture.

Palance came before Commissioner Arthur K. Marshall in a temporary alimony hearing on the suit. Through his attorney, he denied the claim of his wife, Mrs. Virginia Baker Palance, 32, that he could pay $7,500 a month alimony. (Continued on Page 3, Col. 6)

Washing Machine Flares In Levittown

Levittown Fire Company No. 2 was called out when a washing machine motor in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Getz, 29 Clover Lane, Crabtree Hollow, Levittown caught fire yesterday afternoon.

Mrs. Getz said the machine started smoking shortly before 1:30 p.m. The motor burned out but no other damage was caused.

Driver Fails To 'Run' Law

Steve Simon, 33, of Pennsylvania Ave., Morrisville, was arrested on drunken driving charges by Middletown Township police following a two-mile chase at speeds up to 85 miles an hour.

Simon was held over night in Bristol Borough jail to await a hearing scheduled for today before JP Frederick Holly.

Sgt. George Praul reported he spotted Simon driving along the Superhighway. He said he chased the suspect and clocked him doing 85 miles-an-hour. The officer said Simon refused to pull off the road and stop as ordered. Praul said he had to force Simon's car to the side of the road.

After questioning Simon, Praul took him to Lower Bucks County Hospital for examination. Doctors pronounced the Morrisville man under the influence of alcohol.

Praul said Simon will be charged with failing to comply with a lawful order and speeding as well as drunken driving.

Hurricane Builds Up

MIAMI (UP) — A blockbuster hurricane packing winds up to 100 miles an hour lashed through the South Atlantic today about 2,500 miles east-southeast of Miami.

"There is no immediate threat to any land areas," Bernie Moore, forecaster at the hurricane warning center here, said. "However, this storm is far enough out at sea that it has plenty of time to build up into a real big one."

The hurricane, labeled Carrie for the third tropical storm of the year, boiled up in the Atlantic yesterday somewhere between Africa and the United States.

Winds at the center of the violent storm were estimated at 100 miles per hour over a small area near the center. Hurricane force winds extended outward about 75 miles in the "northern semicircle" and 50 miles in the southern semicircle.

Gale winds roared out about 100 miles from the "eye" of the storm in all directions.

Moore said the storm was a "dangerous one." He said vessels in the area were warned to exercise extreme caution.

Cuban Revolt Quelled In Sugar Port Town

HAVANA (UP)—Loyal army troops wiped out the last pockets of resistance in Cienfuegos today, ending the short bloody revolt in that key south coast sugar port.

James Buchanan of the Miami Herald, the only American newsman to make his way through the army blockade around Cienfuegos, reported that 100 navy mutineers still were holed up on Cayo Loco Island three miles from the city.

He said in a copyrighted dispatch that Col. Jose Fernandez Rey, commander of the Las Villas province military force, sent his troops to wipe out the rebel force.

"He ordered his men to ignore any orders of surrender from the navy unit," Buchanan said.

The revolt began Thursday morning when members of the Cienfuegos naval garrison mutinied and joined civilian followers of rebel leader Fidel Castro to seize the police headquarters and other strong points in the city.

Big Three Accused Of Interference

By DOUG ANDERSON
United Press Staff Correspondent

Communists around the world warned the United States today to keep its hands off the Soviet-infiltrated Middle East.

Radio Moscow, quoting what it said was an article in the Red organ Pravda, said Russia's latest notes on the Middle East should be regarded as a "serious warning to those who plan attempts against peace and security."

The notes, delivered Tuesday to the United States, Britain and France, accused the Big Three of interfering in Arab affairs.

Accuses Henderson

The Red radio also accused U.S. diplomatic troubleshooter Loy W. Henderson of "organizing a plot" against Syria in Turkey, Jordan, Iraq and Lebanon.

In Cairo, the pro-government organ Al Nissa printed an interview with Red China's Premier Chou En-lai saying the United States will not dare act against Syria because of Communist support for the Arab state.

The French Communist organ Humanite and various fellow-traveling Paris publications assailed the United States for flying arms to Syria's non-Communist neighbors, saying that a new conflict in the Middle East might mushroom into World War III.

Makes Surprise Visit

Dispatches from the Middle East said Arabia's King Saud is arriving in Lebanon today on a surprise visit whose effect on the situation in the tense Middle East could not immediately be estimated.

An offer from Saud to guarantee Lebanon's independence undoubtedly would be welcomed by the tiny Arab nation, which recently has been threatened with "union" by its Syrian neighbors.

In Washington, President Eisenhower scheduled a meeting with Henderson and Secretary of State John Foster Dulles which is expected to produce a stern new warning to Russia and Syria against Communist penetration which might jeopardize the independence of the Mideast.

Scattered Showers Seen For Weekend

Cloudy weather with scattered showers and thundershowers will prevail throughout most of Pennsylvania today with occasional rain throughout the night and early tomorrow.

The rain will end early tomorrow morning over all sections. Partial clearing and warmer weather will follow with high temperatures near 80 in the east and central portions and in the low 80s in the western areas.

Marine Band Swings Out

The Euphonium and Trombone section of the United States Marine Band which will give two concerts in the Warren Snyder school auditorium, Bristol, Sept. 19, swings out during a rehearsal. The appearance of the famed band is being sponsored by the Bristol Rotary Club with Past President Gene Nichols serving as general chairman.

Gets Set For Bristol

Marine Band Makes History From Capitol To Main St.

The 159-year-old United States Marine Band has been a vital part of the White House social life since 1801. When it presents two concerts September 19 under the auspices of The Bristol Rotary Club, only the locale and audience will be different, for the same talented musicians who entertain the Chief Executive and his distinguished guests will sit on the stage at the Warren Snyder School in Bristol and play some of the same musical selections which they offer during their frequent White House appearances.

The Marine Band's White House duties started 90 years before it made its first annual tour. When President John Adams gave the Marine musical organization an opportunity to make its White House debut at his New Year's Day reception, he started a precedent that has lasted over a century and a half.

With the growth of the nation and an ever-increasing list of visiting dignitaries from all over the world to be entertained, the musical duties of America's oldest military symphonic band increased accordingly. It had achieved a world-wide reputation long before John Philip Sousa convinced President Benjamin Harrison that the Band should tour in this country and give all Americans an opportunity to enjoy its music.

National Band

America is the only one of the leading nations in the world that does not have a national band, but the Marine Band has served in that capacity since Washington became the Nation's Capital. Through a tradition established in those early years, no function of national importance in Washington is complete without the Band.

When Thomas Jefferson took office in 1801, the Band was called upon to play for the inaugural ceremonies, thereby setting another precedent which continues to the present day. To keep up the public morale, the Marine musicians started giving outdoor concerts during the summer months and, by 1845, these concerts had become such an accepted part of the social life of Washington, that President Tyler authorized the Band to give regularly scheduled "musicales" each week on the White House grounds and at the Capitol.

Lincoln Son's Death

These public concerts continued without interruption until 1862 when Mrs. Lincoln asked that they be discontinued because of the death of her son. That summer the public did not object to giving up their concerts during the mourning period, but when Mrs. Lincoln attempted to deprive them of the Marine Band concerts the following year, Gideon Welles, then Secretary of the Navy, prevailed upon the President to reason with her. As a result the Capitol concerts were resumed and the second weekly one was played across the street from the White House, rather than on the grounds.

Army Bars Miscegenation

WASHINGTON (UP) — Negro members of the 2nd Armored Division who married white women in Germany in effect today have to make a choice between their wives or their outfit.

The Army said the Negro soldiers can't live with their white wives once the division is transferred to Texas.

"Each man concerned has to make his decision as to whether he wants to remain in the division or transfer out," the Army said. The 2nd Armored is swapping posts in November with the 4th Armored Division at Ft. Hood, Tex.

Texas has strict miscegenation laws against allowing Negroes and whites living as man and wife. The Army said it had advised affected personnel of the laws.

The Army's explanation came after Rep. Charles C. Diggs (D-Mich.) asked Army Secretary William B. Brucker to set aside the recommendation for the Negroes to transfer out of the 2nd Armored.

Diggs, one of three Negro members of the House, protested the Army's position in a telegram to Brucker.

He said the ultimate result of such advice could be to restore to the Army "even more flagrant discriminatory practices than have already been banned" in the military services.

Diggs said he had read press reports from Bad Kreuznach, Germany, that the Army, anticipating possible embarrassment, had recommended to 2nd Armored Division Negroes with German wives that they transfer to another outfit.

Miss Pennsylvania Dazzles Audience

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J. (UP) — A happy Miss Pennsylvania kissed her good luck baton today and smiled that it was helping her once again to further her college education.

Blonde Jenny Rebecca Blatchford, a native of Altoona now living at Hollidaysburg, tied with Miss Oregon in the talent division of the third round of competition in convention hall last night and conceivably could be well on her way in becoming a finalist in the Miss America pageant.

Blonde Jenny Rebecca dazzled 8,400 spectators with her batin twirling and was a popular choice of the big crowd as well as the judges in tying with the tall blonde vocalist from the western Pacific slopes.

She performed her jazz batin

Durham Girl Wins

Miss North Carolina, brunette Elaine Herndon of Durham, N.C., the first brunette to win a division title, won the swim suit trophy. Her trim figure, 5 feet, 5 1/2 inches tall, 118 pounds and 35-23 1/2-35 was set off in a ribbed white faile swim suite with a pleated bodice.

The drama of the night was the recovery of Miss Oregon from her bad start in her solo to set up the first tie in 12 years, her stopping the music, her simple announcement to the audience "I'm sorry. We made some changes this afternoon."

Then, with a voice that she hopes some day will take her to the Metropolitan, the stately miss, a student at Bethany College, soared through the opera number and stepped from the stage with a slight sag to her shoulders at what she anticipated was defeat, twirling, which has helped pay for her education, to the lustrous strain of the St. Louis blues and closed her act with a twirling of a sparkler batin to the rhythm of the Stars and Stripes Forever. The audience cheered her to an echo as she stepped to the far side of the stage to extinguish her second batin which had showered the stage with sparks.

Her performance came with the utmost poise despite an early apprehension about how the spotlight would affect her vision. She didn't miss once with the twirling sticks.

The Western Pennsylvania girl, who wore a black leopard and a white metallic bolero with red trim, was the final performer among the 17 in the talent division but she never gave any indication of the tenseness building up in the long wait.

"The suspense was terrific and you could tell the talent was exceptionally good," Miss Blatchford said. "Then suddenly, after it was all over, I was surprised and relieved."

She was as joyous as any young miss of 23 could be after being assured of a scholarship valued at $1,000 for her performance in the first tie in the pageant in 12 years.

Miss Blatchford, sponsored by the Exchange Club of West Chester, had a semi-official cheering section present. About 1,000 members from all over the United States attending the service club's 39th annual convention were on hand to give her vocal and moral support.

There was a strong feeling among veteran observers of the pageant that if Miss Pennsylvania is chosen one of the finalists tonight she could conceivably win the title. Two questions will be asked the finalists and the answers will have an important bearing in the final judging. There was a general feeling that Miss Blatchford with her bachelor and master degrees from Northwestern University and well on her way to her doctor's degree would be smarter than anyone writing the questions.

Residents Complain On Fire Siren

A group of residents complained to Pennel Borough Council about a fire siren in Pennel Village during a meeting Thursday night and got a promise of quick action from the borough fire company.

The residents complained of the noise and said the siren frightened their children.

Fire company president John Smith, who attended the council session, explained the company has tried to deaden the sound of the siren and promised still further attempts to keep it from annoying neighboring homes.

Other residents complained to council about dogs running at large, but borough secretary Margaret Morasch explained the borough "has no facilities for a dog catcher."

In other action, Councilman Alexander Knox was appointed chairman of a street lighting committee.

The borough plans to put in additional street lights, following a survey to determine where they are most needed.

Picnic Held For Visitors

Mr. and Mrs. John Dolinsky, Wyandotte Road, had as guests Mr. and Mrs. Edward Pastornak, and sons Edward Jr., Raymond and Jimmy, Pittsburgh. The Dolinskys recently enjoyed two days at Atlantic City.

Gordon F. Porter, Trenton Road, has returned to work after being a patient in Altoona Veterans Administration Hospital for 8 weeks. He underwent two major operations.

Mrs. Kay Booth, Austin Drive, is recuperating at home after undergoing surgery in Mercer Hospital.

A picnic was given by the Union Jack Club of Pennel for children and visitors from England, held in the home of Mrs. Joan Bond, Eddington, vice president of the club. Those attending were Mrs. A. Challis, Mrs. B. Overington, Surrey, England, Mrs. S. Flynn, Buckinghamshire, England, Mrs. Betty Bill, president; Mrs. Dorothy Beranda, secretary, both of Pennel; Mrs. Jack Challis, Mrs. June Bierman, Mrs. Margaret Irvine, Mrs. Nora Carr of Levittown; Mrs. Rosemarie Adam, Eddington; Miss Joan Flynn and Mrs. Mildred Bates, Fairless Hills; Mrs. Winifred Emerson and Miss Patricia Babcock, Philadelphia. Mrs. A. Challis was presented with a hand painted table cloth as a going-away gift. She returned to England August 7. Mrs. Overington will return to England in September after visiting with her daughter, Mrs. June Bierman, Levittown. A meeting was held in the home of Mrs. Carr, Levittown, August 19.

Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Cashdollar and children Judy, Ronnie and Debbie, Chelsea Road, have returned from a vacation at Beach Haven, N.J. The Cashdollars recently visited with their mother, Mrs. William Cadman, Homestead Park. Mrs. Cashdollar was Godmother to James Simons, son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Simons, Pittsburgh, who was christened in July.

Those Good Old Days - Phooey!

What do you mean — "good old days?"

Why, Grandma and Granddad used to have to check through the storekeeper's inventory to find what they wanted — and — sometimes had to bargain quite a bit to arrive at a price.

A hundred years ago — and that's not so terribly long ago — the founder of the great Gimbel stores was a pack peddler who began setting a fixed price for each article he carried. That was an unheard-of idea of doing business. Much more recently, too many stores were still on a "bargaining" basis.

Today you may sit at home and do intelligent shopping by comparing values presented in our "talks to you." We try to tell you what we have — why you will like it — and why it is a real value.

We can only know if we are telling you what you want to know — IF YOU TELL US WHAT YOU PREFER.

Do your share. Tell us.

Measuring Up

The Levittown Players have started rehearsing early in order to measure up to the high standards required for the presentation of the Broadway hit play, 'The Fifth Season.' Jack Mc-Donald is shown measuring Alison Yates, who plays a model, under the direction of Doug Bott. Susan Gainer views the proceedings as Millie Otto reads directions.

'The Fifth Season' To Open Players 6th

The Levittown Players have started rehearsals for "The Fifth Season" which will be the Players' first offering of the 1957-58 season.

This marks the sixth year for the group and this season finds an exceptionally attractive array of plays scheduled for playgoers enjoyment. "The Fifth Season" by Sylvia Regan is a farce at heart, despite occasional scenes of tenderness and pathos. Supersalesmen, lush models and playboys are all in evidence throughout the course of the show that smashed Broadway box office records.

In the director's seat is Doug Bott. Local patrons of the players are familiar with the qualifications of Doug Bott. Last season, co-director of "The Tender Trap" and director of "Arsenic and Old Lace," Doug won the "Oscar" for best actor of 1955 for his memorable role of Waldo Lydecker in "Laura."

Cast members are: Jack MacDonald in the role of Pincus, made famous by Menasha Skulnick. Al Cohn, as his partner, Johnny Goodwin with Betty Ty-ma as his wife, Fran and a newcomer from Fairless Hills, James Parsons, Jr. in the role of their son. Alison Yates is Lorraine, the Goodwin-Pincus model, who threatens their marriage. Marion and George Hopkins, a husband and wife team have the roles of Miriam and Ferrell, with Suzanne Gainer as Shelly.

The roles of the models are handled by Dot Buxton, Jan Boylan and Millie Otto, with Joe Byers as playboy, Miles Lewis. The play will be presented Oct. 10, 11 and 12 at the Walt Disney school, Levittown.

Actress Overcome By Poison Gas Fumes

HOBOKEN, N.J. (UP)—Actress Inger Stevens was overcome by carbon monoxide fumes early today in a tunnel beneath the Hudson River. She was reported in "fair" condition.

The 22-year-old Swedish film star was among nearly 20 persons affected by the poisonous gas apparently escaping from a defective gas generator. Scenes of her latest movie were being shot at the time.

However, all but Miss Stevens and 37-year-old Justin Scoppa of Yonkers, N.Y., were treated at a hospital and released. Actor Rod Steiger, appearing with Miss Stevens in the film, was among those released.

The Western package agreement rejected by Soviet delegate Valerian Zorin would have given Russia two more years to build up a stockpile of perfected H-bombs and would not have limited missile production.

However, the open skies agreement would have allowed Western observation of Soviet missile and nuclear tests. Western diplomats assumed Russia is nowhere near a production-model missile despite its recent announcement of perfection of an intercontinental ballistic missile, the so-called ultimate weapon.

Western observers noted that Zorin abandoned his conciliatory tone at the talks after the Moscow claim of a successful intercontinental missile test and after two summer series of nuclear tests.

They explained that Soviet leaders would have been more likely to accept a mutually advantageous first step disarmament plan if these tests had been fully successful. The Western delegates at London, Harold Stassen, Britain's Alan Noble, France's Jules Moch and David Ritchie of Canada, met today for one final meeting before abandoning the talks.

Stassen was scheduled to fly home Sunday to report to President Eisenhower and Secretary of State Dulles while Zorin was returning to Moscow during the weekend.

Reds Bid For Time In Race

LONDON (UP)—Western diplomats interpreted Russia's break-off of the London disarmament conference as a sign the Soviets need more time to build up their H-bomb and rocket research programs, informed sources said today.

They said the end of the arms talks yesterday will give Russian scientists a long breather in which to continue nuclear test explosions and unobserved rocket flights.

The Western package agreement rejected by Soviet delegate Valerian Zorin would have given Russia two more years to build up a stockpile of perfected H-bombs and would not have limited missile production.

However, the open skies agreement would have allowed Western observation of Soviet missile and nuclear tests. Says Traffic Is Hazard To Children

Bristol Township Commissioner Harold Lefcourt today repeated his demand that sidewalks be laid to the new James Buchanan elementary school, Levittown.

Lefcourt, who represents the Seventh Ward, Bristol Township, which includes the school, said the building is on one of the township's major traffic arteries.

Hazard

"Without a sidewalk our children will be forced to walk along the side of the road. They will be exposed to the hazard of heavy traffic on the narrow Haines Road," Lefcourt said.

He stated the Board of Commissioners had authorized the township manager to have pavements installed in dangerous school areas.

"This will be the most dangerous walk any child in the township will have to take and I think sidewalks should be put in here first," Lefcourt said.

The Buchanan school, which will accommodate over 1,000 children, has not opened yet. Construction was delayed by a labor dispute and the opening has been scheduled for Sept. 16.

Lefcourt asked that asphalt sidewalks be installed on both sides of Haines Road between Mill Creek Parkway and the school. He said at least one sidewalk is needed.

Completion

He said if work were to start Monday or the early part of next week the job would probably be completed by the time the school opens.

The board approved the laying of sidewalks at its meeting Sept. 21. At that time, Commissioner Albert H. Rogers stated sidewalks were needed at other schools.

All other schools in Bristol Township started classes Sept. 5.

Showdown

would show Eisenhower the FBI's report on the explosive situation in Little Rock.

Officials in Little Rock and Washington welcomed the week end break in school attendance, which they hoped would cool down tempers in the dispute.

Guard Reduced

The guard around Central High School in Little Rock was reduced today, although still another unit, from Morilton, Ark., was ordered to report for duty Monday.

The nine Negroes who first sought entrance at the school Tuesday did not show up at the school yesterday. They will not appear in court today, but their written statements concerning the controversy will be entered in the record.

The crowd outside the high school yesterday had dwindled to about 150 persons. A brief flurry was created over the arrest of Murray Gallenson, 20, of Minneapolis, who posed as a reporter to get through National Guard ranks and was found to be carrying a knife. He and five friends on their way to New Orleans were escorted to the edge of town and sent on their way.

Soviets See Own Craft Circling The Moon

MOSCOW (UP) — Predictions of a Soviet atom-powered aircraft circling the moon, mars and venus at a speed of more than 62,000 miles an hour were made today by the Russian air force magazine Sovetskaya Aviatsiya. After citing the success of the TU104A commercial jet airliner and other Soviet aircraft, "demonstrating the superiority of Soviet aviation," the magazine said: "The time isn't far when we will create such flying machines, using atomic or other kind of energy at a speed of more than 100,000 kilometers an hour, able to circle the moon, mars and venus."
